Student Guide for Psychology Majors
Graduating in 2022 or Later

You can skip ahead depending on what you need:

How to Apply for your Degree: pages 2-3

How to Run a DARS report: pages 4-6

How to Read your DARS report: pages 7-15

How to Apply for your Degree:

Before you read your DARS report, make sure to apply for your degree and select when you plan to graduate. You should apply for your degree once you are a junior or have at least 60 credit hours completed.

1. You can apply for your degree and your semester of graduation in HokieSpa by selecting the “Degree Menu” button.

How to read your DARS report:

- The top section includes visually represented information that shows you how much of your Psychology degree is Complete, In Progress, Unfulfilled or Planned using various colors. You can see a pie chart to the left that represents how much of your classes are Complete, In Progress or Unfulfilled for your goal of graduation. This information is also broken down into categories including University GPA, Pathway Liberal Education classes, Major courses, In Major GPA and Free Electives. On the very right, you can see your Overall GPA (top) and your In Major GPA (bottom) shown through a bar graph.

An application for degree may be submitted through HokieSpa.

2. The next section of your DARS report focuses on whether you have applied for graduation and what courses you still have left to complete all graduation requirements. This section of the DARS report will also show if you have any transfer credit incoming because you can only transfer in a maximum of 60 credit hours. You can also find if you've met your foreign language requirement here in the future. Your Overall GPA will also be listed along with the number of hours you have left before reaching the 120 credit hour minimum requirement for the Psychology major. Your current semester courses will be listed as "IP" or "In Progress".
