

Professional Licensure Disclosure Statement

In accordance with the Department of Education's Federal Regulations, Virginia Tech discloses whether its educational programs leading to careers that require licensure meet educational requirements for initial professional licensure in each state. The table below provides the program's determinations for each state. Additional requirements, such as examinations, professional experience, and background checks, may be needed for initial licensure. Licensure requirements are subject to change. It is advisable to contact the specific state licensing agency for more information and to verify the most current requirements for licensure.
